The mystery of life and death has puzzled many a wise man. The alchemists of old searched in vain for some combination of drugs that would prolong life indefinitely. Common sense, chemistry and medical science have combined in this age to show man the way to a long and healthy life.

Common sense teaches that a man should not over-work or over-worry; that he should take ample time for his meals, for resting and for recreation and sleep; that he should not neglect the little ills of life, because they are the precursors of serious and fatal maladies. Chemistry has enabled men to make combinations of drugs that were impossible in the days of the alchemists. Medical science has taught when, how and why these combinations of drugs should be used. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the most valuable of all health-restoring medicines, and the most effective. Its first work is upon the fountain-head of life—the stomach. A man who has a weak and impaired stomach and who does not properly digest his food will soon find that his blood has become weak and impoverished, and that his whole body is improperly and insufficiently nourished. This medicine makes the stomach strong, facilitates the flow of digestive juices, restores the lost appetite, makes assimilation perfect, invigorates the liver and purifies the blood. It is the great blood-maker, flesh-builder and nerve tonic. It makes men strong in body, active in mind and cool in judgment.

It does not make fleshy fat, but solid, muscular flesh, nerve force and vital energy. All medicine dealers sell it.

J. W. Jordan, Esq. of Corbin, Whitley Co., Ky., writes: "About two and a half years ago I was taken with severe pains in the chest, began to spit up blood, was troubled with night fits, and was so sick minded that I could hardly walk or write. Then Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and have improved both in strength and weight."

The medicine dealer who urges some substitute is thinking of the larger profit he'll make and not of your best good.

ELEPHANTS' TRICKS.

HOW THE AWKWARD ANIMALS ARE TAUGHT TO PERFORM.

Some Are Too Dull to Learn Anything, While Others Are Quick to Catch an Idea—Forcible Methods Used in Their Training.

"Scores of people ask me every day," said Keeper Snyder of the elephant house in Central park recently, "how anything so stupid looking and thick skinned as an elephant can be taught anything. I tell them all that elephants are not unlike children. Some are too dull to learn anything, and others can catch an idea quickly. Tom," he went on, pointing to the large elephant who was busily engaged in throwing hay on his back, "although irascible in disposition, is quite intelligent. The first trick I taught him was to lie down. This was not so easy to accomplish as it might seem, for it took a block and fall from front and rear, with a gang of 15 or 20 men at each end. I stood at one side, and as I said 'Get down!' his feet were drawn out from under him. This had to be repeated only a few times before he learned what 'Get down' meant to him.

"To teach him to stand on his hind feet and on his head a block and fall on a beam over his head, a match block and two 'dead men' in the floor and the services of another elephant were all required. As I said 'Get up!' the elephant in harness walked forward, and Tom's front feet went up, while his hind feet were chained together. Then I said 'Stand on your head!' his front feet, which had been previously chained, remained on the floor, while his hind feet were drawn up until they almost literally 'kicked the beam.'

"These were his first lessons. When he learned to drill to 'right about, face,' and 'left about, face,' I stood on one side of him and another man on the other, and we each had a prod. As I commanded 'Right about, face!' he was pushed over to the right, and 'Left about, face!' he was prodded in that direction. I taught him to walk in much the same way, only as we pushed him back and forth we made him go clear around, and now he is one of the best waltzers in the country. He learned to ring the bell and fan himself in one lesson. Both require the same motion, and they are really the same trick, although people never think of that. Yes, he knows which is which and never picks up the fan or napkin when I tell him to ring the bell. I only had to put each, one at a time, in his trunk, and with the fan and bell I shook it and with the napkin wiped first one side of his mouth and then the other. He took to hand organ grinding like a Mulberry street Italian. It is one of his favorite tricks.

"The elephant is the only animal whose legs all bend the same way. His hind legs bend in, and the position required for creeping is not very comfortable, but he does it as well as a baby. His performances on the harmonica are the most surprising to onlookers, but the fact is that all the intelligence required for that is holding the instrument. As he must breathe through his trunk, every breath moves it back and forth. I discovered that he holds his breath when he stands on his hind legs by trying to get him to do that and play the harmonica at the same time, but his front feet are no sooner up than the sound ceases until they are down again.

"His tail is about 2 1/2 feet high, and it took me about an hour to get him to mount it the first time and as long to get him down from it once he was up. I had finally to improvise a step from it before he would come down. He went right up again, however, and came down and repeated the movement several times in the first lesson. Now he mounts it and stands on his hind feet his front feet, his side feet and waltzes and changes on it.

"People all seem to think that an elephant has no sense of feeling because his skin is thick and coarse. The fact is that his skin is as sensitive as a baby's.

is completed. There in the great room are the form and semblance of a human being, perfect in all his proportions. Frankenstein relates the story:

"It was on a dreary night in November that I beheld the accomplishment of my toils. With an anxiety that almost amounted to agony I collected the instruments of life around me that I might infuse a spark of being into the lifeless thing that lay at my feet.

"It was already 1 o'clock in the morning. The rain pattered dismally against the window panes, and my candle was nearly burned out, when, by the glimmer of the half extinguished light, I saw the dull yellow eye of the creature open. It breathed hard, and a convulsive motion agitated its limbs."

Slowly the immense creature arose, and the artist, frightened at his own work, fled away. Then he returns to find his creation possessed of life and every attribute of humanity except a soul. Nowhere can it find human sympathy. It is out of harmony with all things about it, and after searching the world in pursuit of happiness, it returns again to Frankenstein and demands that he make a companion with whom it can live in sympathy and love.

Frankenstein declines, and thenceforth the monster pursues him with hatred and revenge. It slays his brothers and sister, his friend and his bride. It follows him to Russia, to Siberia and into the Arctic ocean, and there creature and artist perish together. It is a most uncanny story to read of nights.

Sir Walter Scott reviewed the novel in The Quarterly, but while admitting its power confessed he did not like it. "Our taste and our judgment revolt at this kind of writing." All the critics agreed as to its daring originality.—Chicago Post.

The Parrot Turned Brown.

Long had the wife of a poor Washington clerk been yearning for the possession of a green parrot.

At last a fine specimen was obtained for $10. It was delivered in the morning, and it came to pass that a new servant from the depths of the country opened the door to the delivery boy. Her mistress was out; there was not a soul to instruct her in the code of ethics as applied to parrots.

"Is it for the table?" she asked.

"Without doubt," was the wicked reply.

Whereupon the parrot was dispatched at once, plucked, trussed and put into the oven. He was just turning a beautiful brown when the mistress of the establishment returned, and that same evening the little servant from the country was back among the ducks and drakes of her own village green a wiser and sadder girl.—Washington Times.

The Trunk Strap.

"No good," said a baggage man, touching as he spoke a rope that was tied around a trunk standing in a railroad baggage room. It was a stout rope and securely tied so far as the knot was concerned, but it did not bind on the trunk, and it would have been difficult, if not impossible, to draw it close without some mechanical means to help. As it stood with the rope loose about it the trunk could have been easily broken by careless handling as though there had been no rope around it at all.

"A strap is the only thing," the baggage man said, "to put around a trunk."—New York Sun.

Not a Real Count.

Myrtle—Why do you think the count is a fraud?

Alice—Because of the way he acted when I showed him the paper containing an account of papa's failure.

Myrtle—What did he do? Break the engagement?

Alice—No. He threw his arms around me and said, "Never mind, darling; you and I can be happy as long as we are left to each other, no matter whether we have money or not."—Chicago Times-Herald.

INQUIRY TERNED COMMERCE.

The most amicable relations should exist between the United States and Great Britain. The commerce of the nations is such that the most friendly conditions are imperative to commercial success. The relation that arises because of affinity is a secondary consideration to the business there is between the countries. England says blood is thicker than water, but it is only a few years ago when we were termed by the British backwoodsman and the blood proposition was unworthy of consideration and was ignored. How many years have passed away since Great Britain discovered that blood is made up of properties that are of more weight when applied to us than the properties contained in water? England had no use for the United States except as a convenience to supply the needs of the British Empire till lately. The blood question about which the British have been talking so much in the last two or three years has been applied as a handle to the pick that is used to undermine our government system.

The fact that contains the most significance in the blood argument for closer relations between the British and Americans is, that English Dukes and Lords have been doing in our country the advertising of the late English discovery of the blood ties there are between the nations. The moving cause for Lords and Dukes to do the advertising is, that the people are supposed, from an English position, to give much more weight to the words of titled men than would be given by them to people of like position in life as themselves. When we were poor as a people and as a nation, the blood in England's poor relatives who live on the west of the Atlantic was not mentioned, as it was not required for the use that England now has for it, and as England had no use for it in its business, blood was not a moving consideration. English Dukes and Lords were not required to become reporters to American newspapers to give publicity to the late acknowledged relations by England that are in the blood of the people of both countries. England has much to do to give proper care to its outlying empire; and the United States has become a power in strength and wealth which has given a color to the blood of its people that it did not have thirty years ago. The power and wealth of the United States England must recognize before it can be used by England in its business.

When wealth and power are companions in a nation, as they have become in the United States, England was not slow to recognize that it had use for them in its business in many parts of the earth, and the money power of the two countries joined hands to aid England to acquire power sufficient in the United States to bring forward and accomplish the desired end, which end is a union, offensive and defensive, under a pretended necessity that it is required to protect the commerce of both countries. Commerce is the term used to fool the people into a compliance with the purposes of the money power by an alliance, offensive and defensive, between England and the United States, with Germany on the side, as matters look at present.

The Duke of Manchester is in New York at the time taking care of the practical and political interests of England in the work before the people, and the interests of commerce is the theme of his efforts as a reporter upon the Journal-Examiner, to impress British blood on our side of the water with the necessity for a closer union between England and America.

It remains to be seen whether blood in this instance will tell the story desired to be told by England and the money power of both countries. Commerce should be fostered by every means required to extend and protect it, but it is not necessary to depart from the advice of the father of his country to protect and extend commerce.

The United States is strong enough to take care of its commerce and protect its merchants in the outermost parts of the earth, and that being true, there is no necessity for an alliance between Europe and America. There being no necessity for an alliance, it is a pretense to another purpose, and the purpose is to acquire dominion over the earth by the money power under the term commerce.

The term progress is applied to the lesser matters there are in the scheme for universal dominion, and commerce is applied to the scheme that includes the minor schemes for universal rule upon the earth, and with the end accomplished by the three great powers, where will be the source that the individual man and his individual rights will derive protection and support?

It may be truthfully answered that the source will not be in the congress of the United States, or in the United States government, as it will be engaged, to the exclusion of all personal rights of the people, in the protection of the rights of the money power against the people, and when it has become a part of the duty of the individual man and citizen to send a representative to congress who will protect his greatest enemy, which politics makes it chiefly his duty to do now, the rights of the individual man will be a theme for unborn generations to grieve over by accusing a dastard ancestry.

WHATEVER may be the result of the action of the election commissioners upon the gubernatorial dispute in Kentucky, it seems there will be trouble at Frankfort. The Democrats feel that the law is on their side of the question, and the Republicans claim that the facts are with them, and in that form the dispute is maintained. The Republicans appear to be determined to seat Taylor, and the Democrats are determined that Taylor shall not be seated, are the latest reports from the seat of trouble.

IT IS claimed that the British have lost up to date three thousand four hundred men in the South African war and as yet they have not accomplished anything against the Boers. At the same ratio of loss for the time engaged in the war, with like success, it is not a hard problem to ascertain how long it will take the Boers to depopulate Great Britain.

THE British have made reconnoissance in Natal to ascertain the damage if possible that has been done by the Boer invasion, and they have succeeded in learning that the country has been looted. The farmers and farm houses have been stripped of everything that could be carried away and the stock of the merchants have been appropriated and taken away.

A Mortgaged Bride.

When a Chinaman falls in love, he can be just as sharp and full of guile as the "Melican man." Chow Sam Lung, therefore, when he looked upon little Ah Moy and saw that she was beautiful and young, at once fell down and worshiped, figuratively speaking, and began to investigate as to his chances of making her his wife.

Now, Chow Sam Lung was young himself and a very successful gambler by profession, being the keeper of a gambling house in San Francisco. But the cruel parents of Ah Moy had promised her to old man Low How for his fourth wife and would not retract their promise. Did Chow Sam Lung sit down and bewail his lot? Not at all. He at once made his father's acquaintance, and, beguiling him into his gambling place, proceeded to let him play and win. Then he played and lost. And Chow Sam Lung said: "No matter, my friend. I will trust you."

After awhile the old man owed Chow Sam Lung $1,400. Now, old man Low How was to give Ah Moy's father $1,000 on her wedding day, but when New Year's came, and every Chinaman must pay his debts before he can paste his prayer in the josshouse, Ah Moy's dad was short and failed to raise the $1,400. So Chow Sam Lung, who had previously taken a mortgage on the girl, promptly foreclosed it and took her to his home in the very face of old man Low How. And that's what happened in San Francisco Chinatown. And Ah Moy was very muchee happy.—San Francisco Call.

Brave Men Fall

Victims to stomach, liver and kidney troubles as well as women and all feel this results in loss of appetite, poisons in the blood backache, and tired, listless run-down feeling. But there's no need to feel like that. Listen to J. W.
Gardner, Idaville, Ind. He says:
"Electric Bitters are just thing for a man when he is all run down, and and don't care whether he lives or dies.
It did more to give me new strength and appetite than anything I could take.
I can now eat anything and have new lease on life." Only 50 cents at S. J.
Hodgkinson's Drug Store. Every bottle guaranteed.

retary of Agriculture.CARSON CITY, December 4.—To JOURNAL, Reno:

TUESDAY—Warmer.

HE DOESN'T LIKE
NEWSPAPER MENA Scribe Went Looking for News and Found Nothing But Trouble.Yesterday afternoon a recently hired scribe, an inoffensive and mild mannered young man, was detailed by the JOURNAL to interview Manager Gest of the narrow gauge regarding progress being made on the extension of his track.It is probably news to most of our readers that the narrow gauge is laying rails and ties across some God forsaken desert up north, pushing steadily onward toward some undiscoverable bourne which no traveler has ever visited.A few months ago the JOURNAL dispatched a member of its staff on a similar undertaking to the one detailed to the inoffensive scribe yesterday. He never came back.Who is the misanthrope fleeing mankind?From cities to caves of the mountains he flew.There, raving, he pours his complaint to the winds.The mountains re-echo to Gest's last adieu.The inoffensive scribe approached the railway magnate and kow-towed three times. Then the following conversation ensued:Scribe—I came to humbly ask a few crumbs of news.

Magnate—Who are you?

S—My card.

M—(aside) An accursed newspaper man.

M—(to scribe) What do you want?

S—I come as a representative of the press.

M—G—D—the papers.

S—Wh—wh—why d—d—dost thou glare at me thusly?M—I don't want to see any of you people. You have been saying that we are going to use coal burning engines, and the woodchoppers threaten to boycott us. You announced some time ago that we were building additional railroad and more people applied for work than we could put on. The men we couldn't hire spit on our clean office floor and polluted our hog cars by sleeping in them.

S—I—I didn't do it.

M—The Reno papers prevented us from getting our assessment lowered by telling the public whenever we carry a passenger or bring a fat hog down from Honey Lake. This finally gets to the ears of the assessor and the Board of Equalization and they think we are in the traffic business.S—Those were items of news that the sensation loving public demands.

M—To h—with the public.

S—But the papers must—

M—To h—with the papers.

Mistaken Facts.

Some little excitement was occasioned after the football game Saturday by some young Reno sports who were about to attempt to take one of their number away from Sheriff Kinney. The sheriff got out his war club and they wisely changed their minds.— Carson Paper.This is a mistake. Sheriff Kinney stood by and watched an exhibition of fisticuffs between a Reno boy and a Carson ass who is connected with the weather bureau. The latter began the quarrel and got the worst of it. When Sheriff Kinney saw that his fellow townsman had been worsted by a rank outsider he arrested both? Not a bit of it.
He "pulled" the Reno lad and permitted the Carsonite to depart in triumph. It is coarse work such as this that keeps the jealous wound open between the rival towns.As to an attempt having been made to take the prisoner from the officer that is also an assertion not borne out by the facts. An offer was made to give cash bail in order to save the lad the ignominy of being taken to prison but the sheriff in his trepidation thought that he was being mobbed.

The County Fathers.

Yesterday morning the County Commissioners assembled in solemn conclave and put in most of the day relieving the treasury of surplus cash.
Quite a list of bills were passed. Several poor and needy people receive pecuniary aid.The appraisers in the Boyington road matter put the damages at $500.
To-day the Commissioners will assemble as town trustees and take up the matter of installing a non interfering fire alarm system. Undoubtedly the Gamewell system will be adopted, as it has been given a trial and not found wanting.

Shearer Says:

As the County Commissioners will have their regular two day's session (Monday and Tuesday) and as the claims will not reach the Auditor's office before Wednesday, Mr. Shearer desires to say that he will not have the claims ready for payment before Wednesday afternoon.

HAS BEEN FORMED

Steamboat Springs Are to Be Purchased and Greatly Improved.A company has been organized in this city, the purpose of which is to bring Steamboat Springs back to its pristine splendor, and even to add considerably to its old time greatness.This Steamboat Springs Development company is incorporated under the laws of Nevada, or will be in a day or two.The capital stock is $100,000 and is fully subscribed. The incorporators are J. W. Hopkins, Stockton; S. T.
Allen, Reno; V. Hopkins, Stockton;
N. M. Allen, Reno; Mr. Prestiss, Truckee; F. M. Hopkins, New York.An option has been secured on the Springs property, including 420 acres of land. A deed to this property will be obtained in a few days. Work will be begun immediately on permanent improvements. A large brick bath house will be first constructed.The place will be conducted as a sanitarium and health resort. The incorporators in an interview had by the JOURNAL, laid particular stress upon what they would do in the matter of beautifying the grounds, but it was learned that the chief reason for the purchase of the property was its vast sedimentary deposit which in the light of recent scientific investigation has developed great value in the useful arts.

IS IT RIGHT

For an Editor to Recommend Patent Medicines?From Sylvan Valley News, Brevard, N. C.It may be a question whether the editor of a newspaper has the right to publicly recommend any of the various proprietary medicines which flood the market, yet as a preventive of suffering we feel it a duty to say a good word for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy.We have known and used this medicine in our family for twenty years and have always found it reliable. In many cases a dose of this remedy would save hours of suffering while a physician is awaited.We do not believe in depending implicitly on any medicine for a cure, but we do believe that if a bottle of Chamberlain's Diarrhoea Remedy were kept on hand and administered at the inception of an attack much suffering might be avoided and in very many cases the presence of a physician would not be required. At least this has been our experience during the past twenty years. For sale by Wm. Pinniger.

Hot Baseball.

The traveling men and merchants played a rag time game of ball Sunday afternoon on the grounds south of the river. A big crowd was drummed up by a band that was a good imitation of the "sweet bells" that "jangle out of tune."Harry Goss umpired the game and did it pretty well considering that it was the first time he had witnessed this form of athletics.No record was kept of the runs but they were pretty plenty for both sides.
The next baseball event will be a game between the clerks and printers.

Long Time Ago.

The local chronology sharp, Mister Nasby, informs us that to-day is the fiftieth anniversary of the destruction of the State capitol of Alabama by fire.Mister Nasby was not quite as old then as he is now. He still has painful memories of the application of her slipper his mother made when he returned from the fire.

An Epidemic of Diarrhoea.

Mr. A. Sanders, writing from Cocoa-nut Grove, Fla., says there has been quite an epidemic of diarrhoea there.
He had a severe attack and was cured by four doses of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. He says he also recommended it to others and they say it is the best medicine they ever used. For sale by Wm. Pinniger.
